The residential home of the Humanitas Foundation in Horgen has aged and no longer meets the structural and operational requirements of a contemporary residential home. After a joint needs analysis and strategic planning, Fanzun was therefore able to organise a project competition by selective procedure for the Humanitas Foundation, which has now been decided.

The aim of the project competition was to find a convincing urban, architectural and landscape-architectural solution that meets the operational, economic and sustainability requirements of the Humanitas Foundation. The thirteen entries submitted showed an exciting range of possible approaches. The winning project «Quint» by the planning team Niedermann Sigg Schwendener Architekten AG and Lorenz Eugster Landschaftsarchitektur und Städtebau GmbH convinced the jury with its very high urban quality, its typological derivation and its integration into the site. It offers residents a contemporary and attractive living environment.

At the beginning of 2021, the Foundation Board of the Humanitas Foundation will decide how to proceed with the «Campus Humanitas Horgen» project.
